Election Monday To Decide Vital Issue

On Monday the registered voters of the Carmel Sanitary District, which comprises Carmel proper, Carmel Point, La Loma Terrace and a portion of Carmel Woods, will go to the polls to decide upon a proposed new sewage disposal system costing approximately $83,-700 and intended to care for the region for the next two decades.

Under pressure of local and state health authorities the board of trustees, composed of represntative citizens, has put in months of study with engineer Clyde C. Kennedy, of San Francisco, to develop a project that will rplace the inadequate septic tank at the mouth of Carmel River. So as to ask for a Federal allottment under the PWA plan, details of the project were forwarded to Washington with approval of local and regional federal officials, and if the expected grant of 30% on labor and materials, amounting to $15,600, is forthcoming the local taxpayers will have an average annual increase of only 15c per $100 assessed valuation of their holdings.

There is strong indication that the grant will be allowed, which would make the total public indebtedness for the system $68,100, the bonds for which would be disposed of either at private sale or taken over by the government at an interest rate of 5% during their life of twenty years.

In a recent mass meeting at the Sunset School when the trustees had state and county sanitary experts and health officials here so that taxpayers might be fully informed on all phases of the question, it was emphasized that unless the district took steps to stop beach and river pollution from the present inadequate system of disposal, the authorities would have to abate the nuisance and cause the residents to take imediate cognizance of the situation.

The new plant offered to the voters on Monday will have a location farther up the river and on its south side, and will operate so effectively that there will be no pollution whatever of air, land or water. Similar plants have been installed in closely built up regions where remoteness was impossible, and were operated with absolutely no complaint from neighbors on the score of noticeable odors from gases or resulting effluent. Here the plant will be remote from habitation and concealed by trees.

It was planned earlier to locate the building on this side of the river and have inlet pipes completely underground. Now the plan is to have the pipes cross the river by combined trestle and suspension method.

The offering of a new plan for public approval would have been done by the trustees years ago had it not been that they were trying to obtain more property at the river mouth to enlarge and safeguard the present tanks from danger of damage by river and surf. Recent court action was adverse and the finding a new site became imperative. That the present tanks were allowed to remain active through patching and other makeshift methods was because the authorities realied that the trustees were doing everything in their power to remedy the situation, despite the fact that the problem has been growing as a menace to public health since 1926, and that the tanks were only temporary at best.

All methods of disopsing of sewage off the rocky point adjacent the present site at shore line, or by outfall pipe running into the bay have ben thoroughly investigated and declared not feasible by experts, both because of unfavorable natural features and strict state laws prohibiting under the conditions. A recent statement from county health officer R. M. Fortier cited an opinion of the Bureau of Sanitary Engineering, California Department of Public Health, in which it said:

"Our office will not recommend to the State Board of Health that a permit be issued to the Carmel Sanitary District is the propsed plan of disopsal results in raw sewage being liberated at or near the shore. On the contrary, we will oppose such a plan as being contrary to the Public Health Act of California."

The recommended new disposal system represents the best available method from the many angles involved, and with probability of a federal grant lightening burden on local taxpayers, Carmel will have opportnuity to get a first rate installation at a reasonable figure, and have one that will long outlast the period of time required to pay for it.

Voters are reminded that there are two separate elections, one the Special for the Sanitary Bonds, and the other the General for candidates for the Sanitary Board, and the other the General for candidates for the Sanitary Board, and that both will be held in the office of the Triangle Realty Company, one block south on Dolores Street from the Postoffice, to be known as Consolidated Voting Precinct No. 1, with voting hours from eight in the morning until seven in the evening.

Ballots for the sewer project will have two squares, the upper for the issuance of the bonds and the lower against them, one of these to be stamped by the voter in the customary manner.

On the Sanitary Trustee ballot the spaces for names of candidates will be blank and the voter required write in names. Hugh Comstock and Dr. J. B. McCarthy are candidates to succeed themselves upon the board, while F. P. Howard is a candidate to fill out the unexpired term of Henry Dickinson, who resigned. Willard Whitney, president of the board, and Arthur T. Shand, secretary, still have terms to fill out.

Bernard Rowntree is candidate for assessor in the Sanitary District, and through technical and business training he is well qualified for the position. His name must also be written into the ballot.

Another local angle the sanitary trustees emphasie is that insofar as possible local men will be employed under the project if the public approves this bond issue.

PINE CONE TO BE OPEN MONDAY NIGHT

As has been customary in the past The Carmel Pine Cone office on Dolores Street will be open Monday night, March 12 to give the results of the Sanitary District special election and election of trustees. Just telephone Carmel 2 for results at the polls.

City Hall To Be Voted On At April Eletcion

The council in regular session last Wednesday evening not only reminded the public that April 9th would be another election day, but that besides voting for new members of the board of trustees the people would be asked to vote upon tentative approval of $50,000 worth of bonds for the new city hall, as a special feature consolidated with the regular ballot and in the same polling place.

The special feature will be contingent upon securing from the government a 30% grant under the PWA allottment of funds for such projects. The voters will be given a pledge that if subsequently the government does not make this grant the city hall portion of the election will be null and void. This was made a part of the election procedings to save some $200 expense in calling a separate election later on, and done under advice of city attorney Argyll Campbell.

An engineer of the state highway commission came before the board to explain that cutting of oaks and pines on the north side of Ocean Avenue just east of Carpenter Street had been done by the state in the belief that such matters did not usually require a permit from the city in carrying out highway plans. Sincere regret was expressed that this had been undertaken without complying with Carmel regulations. The council agreed that as the section of highway was inside city limits, and was to be improved at state expense to make a roadway 34 feet wide from there to the great state highway, and that no passing of resolutions would bring the trees back, the only thing to do was overlook the occurrence.

This brought up the existing danger of traffic from the great highway running into traffic at the corner of Carpenter and Ocean, and it was agreed that a stop sign should be erected at the north-east corner of the intersection facing Hatton Fields.

Henry Dickenson, on behalf of the Forest Theatre, asked that the now inside the fence of the theatre on Guadalupe Street between 7th Street and Mountain View Avenue be vacated by the city and become theatre property. This brought strong protest from Councilman Robet Norton on the grounds that he would not sanction a private group getting public property, and that while he did not mind the fence remaining as many feet in the street as it now did, he would not agree to its becoming legally permanent there.

This precipitated argument and brought various legal opinion as to the right of property owners in a subdivision with streets dedicated to the public in demanding that no streets be closed, as well as reading of minutes by the city clerk during meetings in 1931 when the fence-moving matter had come up previously. No definite action was taken upon the question, nor was there any unity of idea on either side of the council room railing.

Eugene Watson, president of the Carmel Business Association, did not have a completed draft of their proposed sliding-scale business license ordinance, but said that he could have it ready at the adjourned regular meeting set for a week from Wednesday. This would allow the legal steps to be taken to make it effective well in advance of the expected date of July 1st, provided the council gave it favorable vote.

George Whitcomb came before the council representing the Carmel Labor Bureau, composed of unemployed skilled men of Carmel, and proposed that any or all of three projects suggested by the Bureau be given consideration for recommendation in future government allottments, if such were to be had.

First was a chalk rock or other suitably surfaced walk from Ocean Avenue down to the Carmel Mission, especially toward the lower end of San Carlos where there is scarecely room for pedestrians along the highway. Second was the elimination of some twenty-seven blind coners in town where traffic accidents are frequent. Third was caring for encroachment of the sea along Scenic Road.

This bought general discussion as to what Carmel might expect from the Federal government in the way of public works or civil works funds, and that it had enjoyed but meagre benefits thus far. The projected postoffice was cited as an example of delay in federal action and City Attorney Argyll Campbell said that despite rumors of political conspiracy against Carmel to the contrary he believed that if Secretary Ickes, of the Interior, were rightly approached the poject would be put through by immediate release of the $80,-000 that had at one time been appropriated for the purpose but which had in some manner never been actually set free.

He was asked by Mayor John Catlin if he would draft a telegram to Senator Johnson, as he had suggested might be of help, and he agreed to it. In the meanwhile the mayor told Whitcomb what steps had been taken to influence high officials to obtain the same result, without effect. Upon reading of the telegram, which stressed the benefit to Carmel's unemployed the postoffice would be, it was signed by all members of the council and sped on its way.

Annual Fashion Show Will Appeal to Carmel

Bringing the latest in national styles to the peninsula, the Spring Style Show at Del Monte tomorrow night will bring this annual event before eager eyes. Sponsored by I. Magnin and Co., the sports attire, evening wraps and gowns will be modeled by socially prominent Monterey, Pacific Grove and Carmel women in the Bali Room especially decorated with spring blossoms in keeping with the occasion.

Beginning with a dinner dance, the evening will come to a climax when the models circle the room and let diners have close view of the garments, and not the least feature of this will be the musical background arranged by Ed Fitzpatrick for his Del Monte orchestra.

Indications are that Burlingame and San Mateo will paticipate in large dinner parties for the occasion, and advance reservations have been indicative of another capacity crowd for the annual Style Show.

Mr. Fritz Wurzmann, was a visitor in San Francisco on Saturday of last week.

NON-PROFIT HOSPITAL PLANS ARE PERFECTED

Upon the night of February 28th the Grace Deere Velie Clinic of Carmel ceased to operate as a Metabolic Clinic. However under direction of the Board of Directors it will be kept open to receive general patients for a period of two months. This step has been taken in order to give the citizens of Monterey Peninsula an opportunity to express their desire to continue this marvelous institution as a real Community Hospital.

Some of our citizens have been studying the problem for several months and it has been determined that the building must be kept alive for public good and as a non-profit hospital.

At the earnest solicition of friends Mrs. Henry D. Phelps agreed to assume the position of General Chairman of a Hospital Fund organization, in order that the proposition could be properly presented to the Peninsula communities and their financial aid solicited. In this undertaking Mrs. Phelps will be ably assisted by Mrs. McKim Hollins, acting as General Vice Chairman. Mr. W. W. Powell, President of the Clinic Board and acting for the Trustees under the will of the late Grace Deere Velie, stated that the board after giving the entire problem earnest consideration had decided that if the proper improvements could be made and a reserve fund ceated to insure operation for the next year, upon a non-profit basis, they would be willing to allow the communities to operate the building, debt free, as a Class A Hospital. The operation to be conducted by a local board of laymen and physicians who would be satisfactory to the Trustee.

The decision of keeping this great institution open as a non-profit hosiptal rests with the people of the peninsula. Mrs. Phelps feels that it is an opportunity not to be lost and is calling upon public spirited citizens to assist her in a constructive effort to provide modern hosiptalization for all classes. Campaign headquarters have already been established in Monterey County Savings and Trust Bank, Carmel with C. W. Lee in charge.

Mr. Harry Lang and son John came down from Burlingame last week end to be with Mrs. Lang and Doreen Lang in their home on Scenic Drive.

SUNSET SCHOOL BOARD ENJOYS QUIET SESSION

In a meeting marked by quiet and by early adjournment, the regular session of th Sunset School Board last Tuesday evening found the entire membership of Trustees Ewig, Taylor and Kellogg present and given to brisk disposition of the few problems at hand.

It was pointed out that coming school board election, when one new member will be voted on to replace Clara Kellogg, will fall on March 30th, which is Good Friday, but that under the law no other date could be selected, and that details of it would be outlined in the papers in ample time. It was also remarked that voters who have moved from their precinct must return to it in order to vote.

Inspection of the school for the survey of costs to strengthen it against possible earthquake stresse is under way by Engineer Cope, of San Francisco, and it is hoped that the entire project, if approved sanction the costs involved, will be by voters at a special election to completed by August or September and that his report might be expected returned here in ten days or two weeks.

This brought up the subject of earthquake history hereabouts and caused Eugent Watson to read communications from Prof. Bailey Willis, of Stanford University, who has been studying earthquakes and making predictions of probable occurrance of them over a period of years. He said that Carmel was in a region of active faults, but that the earthquake record for Monterey and vicinity from 1836 to 1906 as recorded in Holden's Catalogue was reassuring, for the past century at least.

EXPERTS WARN AGAINST DANGER OF MUSHROOMS

Four experts on plant life, interviewed separately on the mushroom menace that has recently taken nearly a score of lives in California, uttered words of warning.

"If trained persons cannot distinguish poison from edible mushrooms how it is possible to tell the layman a simple method of selection?"

Which means that the case summed in one word is: DON'T. Don't turn a holiday hike into the hills into a call for the doctor a few hours later. Don't give a hospital background to your little outing. This year is especially favorable to growth of fungi, as witnessed by the toadstools that have sprung so abundantly in our gardens; probably edible mushrooms also enjoy this fertility, and the happy searcher for tasty meadow bits will get excited and pick everything in sight.

They say that mushrooms aren't so nutritious, anyhow, and it's the the beefsteak beneath them, that really gives that spring to the knee, the fire to the eye, the speed to the hand. So in case you must make a decision on the problem, reach for a piece of well buttered bread and let it go at that, or walk down to the store and let the grocer take the responsibility.

NO TAXES PAID, NO AUTO LICENSE ISSUED

Automobile owners this year will have to go to the assessor instead of the assessor going to them.

The new departure is the result of a law passed by the last California legislature aimed to prevent car owners from evading the annual property tax. Heretofore a certain percentage of motorists, not possessing real estate, have succeeded in escaping payment.

The new rule requires that all white slips must be validated by the County Assessor, and also by the City Assessor where the owner resides within city limits. License plates for 1935 will be denied owners who present white slips not properly validated. This applies to all cars, as all cars, no matter of how ancient a vintage, will be assessed hereafter.

Under the new law, therefore, the burden of responsibility rests upon the owner. Non-owners of real estate can procure validation of their white slips only by paying the tax, while owners of real estate must make sure that their cars are properly entered against them on the assessment rolls. The motorist who neglects to procure his validation during the regular assessing period will have to pay a heavy penalty at the end of the year before he can clear his car and obtain new license plates from the Motor Vehicle Department.

The 1934 assessing period began last Monday at noon. J. K. Turner, who is doing the work for the County, has offices with the Carmel Land Company on Ocean Avenue.

THANKS GIVEN CARMEL FOR TUBERCULOSIS HELP

The Monterey County Tuberculosis Association wishes to thank the citizens of Carmel and vicinity for their splendid cooperation and interest given in the 1933 Christmas Seal sale.

The net proceeds of the sale for the county is approximately $1100 up to the present time. Returns of sales continue to come in.

It is the plan of the County Tuberculosis Association to spend part of the money raised through the 1933 sale on a partial survey to accurately estimate the number of children in the county who have evidences of early or beginning infection with tuberculosis. This will be done by means of a skin test followed up with X-Ray examination in positive cases. It is planned to make the survey complete throughout the county as funds permit.

MARIE BLANCHARD IS INJURED IN ACCIDENT

Marie Blanchard, millinery designer for the Carmel Style Shop, suffered severe cuts about the head and face on Saturday evening while driving back from Pacific Grove on the new highway. Her car collided with that of Ernest Maas, of Monterey, who remained in a semi-conscious state at the Monterey Hospital for some hours, but who is expected to recover. Riding with him were Mr. and Mrs. Victor Schwab, of Monterey, who received minor cuts and bruises.

Traffic officers investigated the accident shortly after it occurred but did not indicate who was to blame, although both machines were destroyed by the impact.

CARMEL IS GREETED BY NATIONAL RADIO

Carmel was on the air lately when the Corn Cob Pipe Club, of Richmond, Virginia, greeted its newest chapter over national radio hookup. A rich Southern voice welcomed "The Circle of Enchantmen Club No. 50, at Carmel-by-the-Sea, Bernard Rowntree, secretary."

This will probably start an outbreak of one-man chimneys around town until you can't tell whether it is pitch pine burning in the family fireplace or just papa qualifying for club membership with his new tobacco burner.

FORMER LOCAL MINISTER STARTS ORGAN STUDY

T. Harold Grimshaw, former minister in the Community Church, has recently taken up the study of the pipe organ with Allan Bacon, organist for the College of the Pacific.

Mr. Grimshaw has been important in the musical life of Carmel, assisting with local theatre productions, giving musicals from his fine collection of recordings and making his church services beautiful with appropriate music.

The change to the Ministry of Church Music is not unexpected because Mr. Grimshaw is already an accomplished musician. For ten years he has been organist at the annual meeting of the Methodist Episcopal Church Conference. His father was an organist for thirty-seven years in England.

Mr. and Mrs. Grimshaw plan to return to Carmel for the summer to enter community activities.

Girard Fulton, former resident of Carmel, came down again last Sunday from his home in San Francisco to visit among other friends, Mrs. John Norton Pomeron. Known here as an artist and manager of the Girard Tea Room, Gerry proves his versatility by having a position as economist for the government at the University.

"THEY KNEW WHAT THEY WANTED" THIS WEEKEND

Sidney Howard's famous Pulitzer Prize comedy of California ranch life, "They Knew What They Wanted," is on at Carmel Community Playhouse this weekend. It is under the direction of Edward Kuster, who made a rousing success of this fine play seven years ago at the Theatre of the Golden Bough. An almost entirely new cast has been assembled for the new production. In Althea Kendall and Evert Sholund the producer declares he has found the ideal "Amy" and "Joe." Kuster is repeating his former role of "Tony Patucci," Napa county grower of Grapes and maker of wine. A carefully selected cast of thirty local players is supporting the principals. The play cannot be reviewed until the next issue of this paper, but its previous unprecedented success is a guarantee of the show's high quality.

Heywood Broun has the following to say of this stirring play of the California soil, " 'They Knew What They Wanted' belongs among the best of American comedies . . . . a soul-rousing play out of American life . . . . . It is a play in which the comic spirit achieves heroic proportions."

It is such plays as this that gave Carmel the fine reputation it enjoyed for "good theatre" some years ago. Owing to the high royalty, the producer states that the play cannot be extended beyond tomorrow night. It is, as Stark Young said of it in New York, "a play to be recommended all over town." Tickets at the drug stores and in the booth opposite the postoffice.

THE PHOTOGRAPHS OF WILLARD VAN DYKE
by Edward Weston

It is particularly difficult to write an unbiased estimate of the work of a friend; inhibitions arise —the fear of praising unduly— which tend, if anything, to sober one's enthusiasm. So when I state that Willard Van Dyke is one of America's most promising young photographers, I write with conviction. I will qualify "most promising," by adding that he has gone beyond many workers already accepted. Not that I wish to say Van Dyke has "arrived"; nor, I am sure, does he so believe. He has many years ahead before reaching that goal, which is after all never reached.

Five years ago Van Dyke came to "study" with me. I found he had already an adequate technical foundation on which to build; that he an intelligent approach to straight, unmanipulated photography; that he possessed a fine balance between intelelct and emotion, that he would never be satisfied; which left me very little to teach! For after the necessary technical basis to start from, "nothing worth learning can be taught;" a teacher can only stimulate.

Since 1929, I have watched the maturing of Van Dyke's viewpoint and technique; and his ever sensitive reactions to life. A group of the resulting photographs are on display now at the Denny-Watrous Gallery, Carmel. I will not attempt to evaluate individual prints; this is a pleasure and privilege each one should have for himself.

In addition to his use of photography as an expression, Willard Van Dyke, with Mary Jeannettee Edwards, maintains an unique gallery in Oakland, known as "683 Brockhurst." Here they present exhibitions, not only of the best known workers in straight photography, but also of the most promising "unknows." Since the usual "Salon of Photography" is devoted to the cause of those photographers who use their medium to imitate the worst in other mediums, this little gallery has an important function in showing work which the general public might otherwise never see.

CHILDREN'S CARNIVAL NEXT WEEK ON FRIDAY

Carmel residents will probably turn out en masse to attend the gala children's carnival to be held next Friday afternoon, March 16th, at Sunset School. Sponsored by the Parent-Teacher association, the carnival will draw pennies from those who enjoy the varied bill of fare, the sum thus obtained to aid in PTA social welfare work.

At two o'clock in the afternoon the program will open with a parade of doll buggies, bicycles, and other small vehicles. Then will follow the costume parade in which children will wear the costume of different historic periods. Children of all ages are urged to devise their costumes, but those who need assistance may communicate with Mrs. Charles Guth.

Among the activities to make up the carnival will be movies, freak shows, tumbling and acrobatic stunts, peep shows, dancing specialties, fortune telling, Hill Billies, and riding. Other attractions will be a hot dog stand, fish pond, book and flower booths, food booths, and other refreshment stands. The carnival will close with a bonfire at five o'clock.

Those interested in making contribtuions to the book booth may leave books at Sunset School. Articles for the fish pond may be left at the Dolores bakery. Any information regarding the carnival may be obtained from the president of the PTA, Mrs. Grace Plank, telephone Carmel 763-W.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT AT COMMUNITY CHURCH

The Foster Glee Club announces its first concert of the present season, in and for the Community Church, Carmel, on the evening of Sunday, March 18th, 1934, at eight.

This group of business men who love to sing has been giving annual concerts in this church for a number of years and its work has won the approbation of evey one who has heard it. Few towns the size of Carmel can boast of so excellent a men's chorus.

Mr. Paul Hampton, formerly of San Jose, will be one of the soloists. Mr. Hampton has a fine tenor voice, and has had a wide experience in solo work, both religious and secular. The Club will present an entirely new program of glees, part songs and "negro spirituals," among which may be mentioned "The March of the Musketeers" and the well known "Deep River."

Fenton D. Foster, organizer and director of the Club is well known about the Peninsula for his many presentations of both opera and orotario, and assures his friends that this concet will be up to the usual high standard set by the organization.

A silver offering for the benefit of the church will be received and it is hoped the usual large aduience will be in attendance.

"STABAT MATER" NOW IN REHEARSAL WEEKLY

Rehearsals for the "Stabat Mater" go on weekly in the Denny-Watrous Gallery. Mr. Penha has engaged his soloists and they will be announced in next week's paper. The Carmel Music Society may well be proud of sponsoring such a production as this planned for Easter. Nothing so big has been attempted here before. An orchestra of forty, directed by Michel Penha, a chorus of sixty-five, trained by Fenton Foster, and four professional soloists from San Francisco will make a super-production of great excellence.

OPERA ASSOCIATION PLANS FOR FUTURE PRODUCTIONS
by Lee Van Atta

Of all the operas or shows produced on the peninsula, "Patience" to me seemed the most enjoyable. The simplicity of the play, without drama, seemed to thrill the audience. With such well known singers as: Gertrude Bardarson, Gordon Knoles and Madeline Curry heading the list of characters the play was carried to perfection.

The people of the peninsula will, I am sure, be glad to hear that the opera association will be producing many more of the old favorites in the future. Among those that may be produced are: "Floradora," "The Mikado" or "The Chimes of Normandy."

The orchestra, which is made of: Geraldine O'Connell, Muriel Doolittle, F. P. Search, Mildred Wright Irene Cator and Director Gunderson also seemed to please the audience.

Watch for the next production of the Monterey Peninsula Opera Association.

RED CROSS CAN FIND USE FOR BABY BUGGY

Have you a baby buggy in your home that robust Oscar or Hermione has outgrown? The Red Cross would like to borrow it for a family that has infant-in-arms so that when mama goes downtown shopping she may take the babe along to absorb the town's artistic atmosphere at as early an age as possible.

Remember that baby buggy may be called a go-cart, a perambulator, an infant coach and several other things, but the purpose is the same. Not a doll buggy, however, as one young lady offered Miss Walton at the Red Cross rooms in the new quarters at Dolores and 7th. or phone Carmel 382.

Mr. anr Mrs. "Mort" Henderson returned Friday from a short visit in Los Angeles.

A small William Keith landscape oil has recently come into the possession of the Carmel Library. Miss Alice McChesney who took care of the library garden before she passed on two years ago bequeathed the valuable little picture in her will. The famous California artist was a friend of Miss McChesney's parents.

Lester Donahue, Henri Deering, and a few other pianists who have specialized in the more intimate side of piano playing, have a steady audience because of their program offerings, which give excellent readings of rarely heard piano works.

Mr. Donahue's recital on Friday Denny-Watrous Gallery on Friday evening, March 16, has more than a usual number of interesting works which have not before been played in Carmel. The most important is the Fifth Sonata of Scriabin, one of Mr. Donahue's outstanding European successes which he will now play for the first time in America. Many people consider this Sonata the greatest of Scriabin's piano works. It belongs to his middle period, before he became the extreme mystic of his final days.

The program will open with Liszt's "Variations on a Theme of Bach," the theme being taken from F Minor Mass, "Weinen, Klagen." These variations are often played in Germany, but so far as Mr. Donahue knows, he is the only American pianist to give them a hearing.

Mr. Donahue will play from Chopin a Prelude in C sharp minor, Opus 45, which is not in the well-known collection of Twenty-four Preludes, but a much later work, with a broader trend, which was published posthumously.

Another rarely heard composition will be the Brahms Ballade in D minor, based on the famous Scotch "horror ballad" which David Bisham has sung so often.

Other works on the program will be from Debussy and Ravel. No number on the entire program has been played in Carmel by Mr. Donahue in his former appearances here.

Lester Donahue's experience as a concert pianist has taken him on tour throughout the music centers of Europe and the United States. As soloist on the John Hays Hammond tonal pedal piano he had ten appearances in one season with the Philadelphia Orchestra under Leopold Stokowski, and is well known throughout the country as a pianist who gives a serious musicianly reading of important compositions. His many friends welcome him back to Carmel on March 16 when he gives his recital in the Denny-Watrous Gallery.

SUPERIOR RECORDINGS

Reviewed by T. Harold Grimshaw

Inspired by the recent success of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Patience" in Carmel, there will undoubtedly be considerable interest in other G. and S. Operettas. The present writer wishes to draw attention to the splendid new recording of "Princess Ida"—a monumental album of ten discs. The operetta of classic mould is little known in America and ought to be better known for it is a sheer delight and includes some of Sullivan's most catchy melodies. The old familiar favorites under the direction of Rupert D'Oyly Carte present a thoroughly effective performance and the orchestra is tip-top. The recording is most satisfactory. "Princess Ida" is in some ways similar to "Patience" in that it is a take-off of a prevailing fad: in the present case, "feminism"—the self-sufficiency of women and the undesirabiliy of men. It is charming foolishness and a very worthy release in every way. Victor Master-piece Album, C-20.

ART CLASSES ARE IN FULL SWING

Eighteen have signed for the life drawing class at Sunset School Tuesday and Friday evenings under the direction of Clay Otto.

This adult education is financed by the Monterey county school board and is attended by persons from Monterey and Pacific Grove as well as Carmel.

Clay Otto said, "I have known for a long time that Carmel, being an art center should have free art classess and I am glad, since the board is expending money for the classes, that they are so well attended. I expect, and have room for ten more in the class."

Mrs. Charlotte E. Morgan's general drawing class in the old auditorium at Sunset School was attended by eleven last week. The classes will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evening.

CURRENT EVENTS SECTION GIVEN INTERESTING TALK

Papers giving before local organizations by local people often reveal an astonishing amount of research and thought on the slubject presented to the current events section of the Carmel Woman's club last week when Mrs. Clara Beller discussed current events in the world of music.

Mrs. Beller brought the march of musical events right down to the last minute. No branch or current music was missed in her able review, which covered musical activities of America and the world. She expressed appreciation for the opportunities offered on the peninsula to hear the best music and pointed out the future programs of interest, and the local organizations backing them, which make this community one of exceptional musical advantages.

VALUABLE PEARL CARVINGS EXHIBITED IN LOCAL SHOP

A mother of pearl carving of the Last Supper valued at $25,000, is on exhibition at a Dolores Street Shop, the work of Gabriel and Gamil Afana, of Bethlehem. Taking five years to construct from thousands of pieces of delicately carved shell, it has been exhibited at many fairs and has recently been brought up here from Long Beach under heavy insurance.

The most difficult thing is the gaining of lifelike expressions in such small figures, and this requires not only high craftsmanship but utmost care in selection of the materials. A companion piece is a crucifix, five feet high, depicting the life of the Saviour, and valued at $10,000, rated among the finest of contemporary mother of pearl carvings.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Parsons of Chicago, friends of Mr. and Mrs. Russell J. Mathais of Carmel are spending an indefinite time here, stopping at Hotel La Ribera.

PAUL TAYLOR PRESIDENT OF NEW JUNIPERO CLUB

At election of officers on March 2nd, the newly formed young men's Junipero Club, organized to promote recreational sports in Carmel, Paul Taylor was made president Vernon Wills, vice-president, Hal Stone, Secretary and treasurer, and directors were Maurice Gimshaw, Tom Harbolt, Lytton Hitchcock and Y. Miyamoto.

During the week the club house at Dolores and 8th will be available to members after ten in the morning on Sunday after 2 in the afternoon. The club decided to have a business session twice each month in connection with instruction night. This will be on Fridays, and at the last session O. W. Bardarson instructed in wrestling and boxing, and George Whitcomb gave lessons in chess.

Information regarding membership may be had from Don Staniford at his store on Ocean and San Carlos, or from club officers.

ABALONE SPRING SEASON SOON TO BE LEGAL HERE

Abalone baseball practice for the Spring series is putting out some lusty whoops these Sunday afternoons up on the Carmel Woods diamond, and as soon as the mathematicians of the League can get the schedules and the teams in working shape you will find the village up there on the Sabbath afternoontime. The whole family will probably be in the lineups, with the smallest members farmed out in the wildflower fields to grow strong for future years.

Already over two dozen players have signed the want-to-play list in Don Staniford's store, and a considerable number of new names are appearing to replace the brittle veterans. Newcomers may get the details from the Doc and learn of the legends and lustre of the League that put indoor baseball on the map just after the war and kept it there through years of civil strife.

Sign up. If not as an active player, then as a bleacherite in the cheering section led by Frank Sheridan.

SLIPPERY ROAD CAUSES ACCIDENT

Mrs. Robert Garret of Carmel escaped injury last Saturday morning when her car skidded on the road to Monterey but a wheel of the car was crushed in the accident. A clear morning in Carmel, the other side of the hill was foggy and the highway wet and slippery. The accident happened while Mrs. Garret was on he way to Pacific Grove where she is employed in a real estate office.

It's the EXTRA service that makes Automatic Gas Water Heating worth having

Gas costs so little when modern appliances are used. For example, an automatic gas water heater will provide hot water for shaving for fifteen mornings at a cost of one cent.

SO OFTEN in so many homes the service hot water can give is limited to meal-time kitchen use, once a week laundry use and the bath times for the family.

But modern homes and modern living demand full, all-of-the-day service of hot water automatically on tap. Hot water must render Extra Services. This is the day of gayer, lighter colored children's clothing that require almost daily washings. Silk stockings and lingerie that keep fresh and wear longer for the daily rinse in warm sudsy water. Linoleum floors, painted woodwork, tile floors—all need the preserving care of warm water cleaning.

Home economists tell us that the average home of today needs the on-tap service of hot water 150 times a day. There is but one way to have such hot water service. It is with an automatic gas water heater that keeps water stored hot within a heavily insulated tank.

Have you thoroughly gone into the details of how little a modern automatic water heater costs? Learn the facts. See your gas appliance dealer or consult a representative of this company.

VOTE—VOTE—AND VOTE FOR.

The election Monday next will settle the sewage disposal problem only if two-thirds of those voting mark their crosses in the upper square that says "For the Issuance of Bonds," a defeat of the measure settles nothing, for then the state steps in with its demands from the board of health, its quarantine, and perhaps the prohibition of use of the present septic tank and its entire system of sewers.

The situation is desperate, and our rejection of the plan presented by the Sanitary Board, working with state engineers, would be the costliest mistake that Carmel has ever made. Today our beach is polluted by the excrement from a tank that was never intended for more than a few hundred population, was never completed properly even for that, and has been under state suspicion for many years. The State Board of Health has protested time and again, and extended our time for correcting matters only because it understood the reasonableness of our urging delay. Now that the legal status of the property rights has been finally determined by the Supreme Court, there will be no sympathy for delayed action. If we are not ready to clean up our beach, building a proper plant to dispose of the raw sewage that pollutes it, we will have to pay the price. No excuses will be heard by the State Board of Health. Carmel is not bankrupt, nor is it unable to afford a safe and healthy sewage system If Carmel will not willingly comply with reasonable demands of health officers, its beach will be closed by quarantine, its septic tank will be locked, and we must either go back to the individual cess-pool, or build latrines as in an army camp.

What the cost may be when the state determines to take a hand in our problem, no one can say; but it certainly will be more than is required by the projected bond issue; and topping it will come the very damaging advertising of a quarantine of the beach. Summer visitors will keep afar from the polluted beach of Carmel. Value of all realty in the village will promptly depreciate. The fine fame of Carmel will be nastily smirched, and its record of years as a town of homes will be a joke. "Homes without sewers" will be the sneering answer.

Even as a matter of direct and immediate cost to the district, the settlement at the polls Monday by a "Yes" vote of more than two-thirds the ballot, will be the economical way out. Indirectly, the defeat of the measure would be the costliest kind of a mistake. "Carmel? Why that is the place where the State Board of Health quarantined the beach." For a dozen years visitors to Carmel would be turned elsewhere by the memory of it.

At this bond election, every elector in the district should vote "Yes." We know they'll not all do so; there are plenty who object to any added tax burden, however small, however necessary. The proponents of the measure should let nothing interfere with getting their "Yes" votes into the ballot-box Monday, for it takes two to offset each opponent of the proposition. Remember the place, the Triangle Realty office on Dolores street; the hours from 8 A. M. to 7 P. M.; and the date, Next Monday—Monday, March 12.

REMEMBRANCE OF WATERS

I, who have left the waste-tracks of the sea
To live between two mountains, sit me under
A young larch tree and watch the hot blue thunder
Fold over the far hills enormously;
Or follow a hawk's progress, see flowers hold
Their gravely thrust-out pistils to the south,
And taste the earth's contentment with my mouth
And teach my sea-drawn body to grow old.
No matter how the quiet flesh behaves
Somewhere beyond the tallest water-sheds
Beyond pine forests, and beyond the warm
Sun-smell of grass, there is a sea where waves
Stooping their white intolerable heads,
Sweep my soul under in a ring of storm.

—Richard Esler

PHILOSOPHY

I know that time will take all things that are,
That I must watch and wait till comes my turn;
I know some ends are short, some stretch out far,
Some candles snuff and some just burn and burn;
I know for every night there comes a day,
For every sob or sigh there is a smile,
That only change can build a pleasant way
And keep disgust from dulling every mile.

We are but snow beneath the summer sun
And learn at last that death is always kind,
That when the final round of life is run,
It matters little what we leave behind.
But this my wish as things go moving past:
That love and faith be mine unto the last.

INCOHERENCE

Inadequacy, drenching my Soul in huge, damp drops
Of incoherent words—
So many times I feel
When utterence stops
As if transparent thought
Must flow outwards
In the lucid form
My heart is taught.

"EAST IS EAST, AND WEST IS"—SOUTH

In explaining a confusion of the geography of Carmel, the Peninsula Herald editorially admits that the Carmel river runs westward into the sea, rather than southward into the mountains; but claims that the Pine Cone "evaded the issue" by placing the new site of the sewage disposal plant "across the river." The Herald goes on: "However Perry Newberry leaves it to the imagination as to whether he was sitting on the north or south bank of the river as he typed his paragraph."

The Carmel Pine Cone's editor sits perpetually north of the river, between "over the hill" and "across the river." And nobody in Carmel misunderstands his meaning when he writes "across the river" or "over the hill." Nor does he attempt to adjust the political or social problems, odorous or otherwise, of "over the hill."

The Pine Cone rather resents the interference of the newspaper from "over the hill" in a purely local Carmel matter, even though that newspaper were more familiar with the points of the compass hereabouts. There were other mistakes, more important than the geographical one of the river's flow in the editorials.

Carmel has given evidence in the past of ability to attend its own affairs in an adequate manner, as is shown by the smallest bonded debt of any municipality of the peninsula, and a financial condition far away from insolvency. Carmel has never intruded upon the sewage affairs, or the odoriferous problems of the canneries "over the hill." It asks only a like courtesy from the newspapers of our neighboring cities. We can continue to conduct local affairs efficiently and economically without the help of a misinformed newspaper from a town that has not been so successful with its own sewage problem as to give it especial privileges as an advisor.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

John D. Barry, veteran columnist and commentator of the San Francisco News, recently remarked upon the Steffens' edition of the Pine Cone, especially about the letter from Robinson Jeffers and the way it revealed him as a prose writer with a delicate vein of humor and a human, likeable manner.

Upon the story of how Hearst offered Steffens $10,000 if he could write a murder story so perfect that nobody reading it could ever afterward sit on a jury and vote for a verdict of capital punishment, Barry asks if perhaps Dreiser's "American Tragedy" might not be the closest approach to Steffens' idea now extant.

"California has all the more reason to be proud of Steffens," he continues, "because he's a native son. Some of the most appealing work in his autobiography is to be found in those chapters that deal with his years as a Sacramento boy. What a good time he's had all his days, gratifying his curiosity about human beings and trying to make them see what a chance they have to make life beautiful."

Edward Weston who is the official photographer for the southern branch of California in the Public Works of Art Project is enthusiastic about the plan.

Returning recently from Los Angeles where he photographed over thirty works of art produced by P. W. A. P. workers he said that if only ten percent of the work produced at this time lives it will greatly add to the art treasures of the nation. This work marks a significant change of a democracy's attitude toward artists as a group. It is the first time that artists have been made to feel that they are functioning with Society.

The artists are paid $38.25 for thirty hours work. Weston says that time is nothing to the workers and many of them burn the midnight oil, glad to have a chance to work without money worries.

Merle Armitage is in charge of the work in the south. Weston plans to go to Los Angeles in March to continue his work of recording the works of art which number over four hundred and range from frescoes, murals, easel paintings and photographs to sculpture and wood carvings for the embellishment of public buildings and parks.

The work of the P. W. A. P. is under the general direction of Edward Bruce an artist who is a personal friend of the first lady of the land and who, incidentally, lived in Carmel for some time two years ago.

Talbert Josselyn had a fine golf story named "The Man Who Couldn't Take It," in last week's Collier's Weekly. It might be located on the Pebble Beach course, and deals with a headstrong young golfer who is injured in a motor wreck and from then on has to sit on the porch of his fairway-bordering house and watch others play the game.

Josslyn's favorite locale for golf yarns is the Beach course, and perhaps one of the best known was "The Finisher," taking its title from the killing eighteenth hole, a title that has stuck to that particular hole ever since.

Young writers, fresh from college classrooms have the best training for the short story writing field, but often tend to write in an expository fashion that is too stilted, too academic for the short story market, believes Dr. Robert P. Anderson, instructor in short story writing for the University of California Extension Division here.

"Beginning writers must learn to write according to their senses—to write according to what they feel, and see and hear. Until they learn to do that they cannot be interesting," declares Dr. Anderson, whose students have published stories in the most popular magazines of the country.

The short story is one of the characteristic art forms of the day, according to the Extension Division lecturer, because it is short, succinct and close to life and at the same time fitting in with the general tempo of modern life. The art of short story writing, he believes, is holding its own—with a larger number of people writing a better type of short story than ever before in the history of American fiction writing. The general level is high, he declares, and the number of writers of good stories greater than ever before.

In the list of 50 Books of the Year, a selection made by the American Institute of Graphic Arts, besides the Edward Weston Book, mentioned in this column recently, is a Bibliography of the Works of Robinson Jeffers, by S. S. Alberts, published by Random House, Inc. of New York. The book was designed by Peter Beilenson.

Over 500 books were submitted this year by publishers from all sections of the country. The jury, composed of William A. Kittredge of The Lakeside Press, Chicago; Carl Purrington Rollins of the Yale University Press, New Haven, and Joseph Blumenthal of the Spiral Press, New York, considered each book from the standpoint of its physical attractiveness, its fitness to purpose, and the conditions of its publication and manufacture. An attempt was made to judge each book upon its own merit in its particular field. Thirty-five publishers are represented, twenty-nine designers and thirty-two printers. That two books of the list of fifty should directly concern Carmel is interesting.

More news of the success of "The Drunkard." Connie Schumann just up from the south reports that the Drunkard Company has signed a contact with Paramount to produce it as a play within a play using the present Carmel cast.

Galt Bell will direct the filming, cooperating with William Le Baron, Paramount director. The movie, "Grease Paint" will star W. C. Fields.

Mrs. Schumann says that the cast is delighted with the publicity which the filming offers. The shooting will begin in two weeks, will be about one week's work. The actors will be on salary.

The momentous success of this Barnum revival is a mystery. No one yet has been able to to decide why it clicked to the extent of an eight months run in Los Angeles where one week is a long run. Every Saturday performance is booked fully until April 17. The house is always sold out two weeks in advance. Governor Rolph and a party were turned away on New Years Eve.

The Theatre Mart in Los Angeles where "The Drunkard" is playing has a seating capacity of less than two hundred, and seats are reserved by tables. Waiters in the clothes worn in the 19th century serve beer and sandwiches. The walls are decorated with posters, authentic copies of those used by Barnum.

The play is folowed by old songs led by Blackie O'Neil and joined in by such Carmelites as Ruth Marion Poore, Larry Graniere and Sam Ethridge.

The young thing with the baby eyes and the fluffy blonde hair that men-people were persistently wanting to run their hands through, was showing a distinguished guest around the little home that she had just taken in Carmel, the center of literature and allied arts.

The guest paused to examine a small set of books on one of the chair-side stands. The little hostess noted his scrutiny, and said brightly:

"I don't even know what they are, but they're pretty, aren't they?"

BOB DALTON WINS KING CITY BOUT

Bob Dalton, fighting at Recreational Hall in King iCty last Tuesday night, scored a knockout victory over Joe Rodriguez, of San Jose, in the event billed at 124 pounds. This Carmel boy has lost only one fight out of twenty-six, and is gaining ring technique with every bout.

His older brother, Frank, lost a close fight to Elmer McCay in the 147 pound class on the same card, and while he has fought a relatively small number of battles in his six months in the squared circle, he gives promise through hard hitting and making a name for himself and the fighting Dalton Family.

Another member of the Carmel Athletic Club, managed by Jack Dalton, father of Bob and Frank, was also on the King City card. He was Charles Vink, but after twice flooring his opponent, he himself was floored and his seconds had the fight stopped in the third round.

Mr. E. J. Tobin, President of the Hibernia Bank in San Mateo spent the week end at La Ribera, while here Mr. Tobin visited his many friends on the Peninsula.

Sunset Needs A Trustee Like Mrs. Levinson

SUNSET'S COSTS NORMAL AND SHOW REDUCTION

"Sunset School is paying no more for education than the average net cost for the State of California. The well-rounded education of the child is the most important function of the community."—James G. Force, County Superintendent of Schools, Salinas. Mar. 4, 1932.

Last year the Sunset tax rate was 42 cents. This year it is 27 cents.

SUNSET TESTS HIGH MARK

"On Jan. 13, 1932 I personally tested Sunset School eighth grade pupils. The average score made was 97 points. This was much above the average set for the United States."—James A. Walker, Supervisor of Schools, Monterey County.

SUNSET GETS ALMOST THREE TIMES ITS NORMAL HONOR-ROLL QUOTA

"It is a pleasure to report that Sunset pupils who have entered Monterey High School make records above the average. At present 79 graduates of Sunset represent 12% of the 648 pupils in the high school. Sunset graduates constitute 32% of the names on the High School Honor Roll." From data furnished by Monterey Union High School, hence 2 years ago 12% of Sunset Graduates captured 32% of these scholastic honors.

VISITING EDUCATOR SAYS IT IS OUTSTANDING SCHOOL

"It is rare that one sees a whole school, like Sunset, so permeated with the ideas and ideals that we try to give our student-teachers before they go out to teach. I have frequently told my classes in San Jose Teachers College and my summer classes in the College of the Pacific at Stockton about the school in Carmel where an exceptional educational program is in progress." —Oct. 17, 1932. Cecile B. Hall, Assistant Professor of Education, San Jose Teachers College.

Mrs. Levinson loves Sunset School; wholeheartedly, loyally. This spirit is born of seven years close contact. She feels toward Sunset much as a mother toward her own children. When Sunset excels she is proud of it. When it falters she is disturbed.

Her correctives will always grow out of sympathetic understanding. Organized society prays for that intelligence in every mother. A community is fortunate if it finds such qualities in a school trustee.

STABILITY.—Mrs. Levinson is satisfied with Sunset's educational trend. She has ample proof that it meets with the hearty approval of a vast majority of parents and educationally-minded citizens.

Moreover, she knows that Sunset wins the admiration of out-of-town educators. So on the whole, parents could hardly be expected to ask for a different standard. Nor could the community easily agree on any other basis of child training. Mrs. Levinson will not tamper with success.

PRIDE AND CRITICISM—Mrs. Levinson has intuitive educational understanding, and along with so many others of similar insight she rejoices in Sunset's broad educational aims, and in its happy, wholesome spirit. She believes that Sunset is one of Carmel's finest possessions, and one to be dearly cherished. But Mrs. Levinson well knows that Sunset is not infallible, and makes its mistakes. Her own criticisms will be effective because they will be tolerantly registered.

ECONOMY.—Mrs. Levinson has a thrift born of German parentage. She will use it in an earnest endeavor in balancing the rights of the tax-payers against the rights of the children and teachers. To do less would be poor service to the community.

These Will Vote For Helen Levinson

FIRST, those who see the happiness of Sunset children as she sees them, happy in the school and in the home, and growing in mind, body and character, and under policies that need no radical change, but rather, judiciously built upon.

SECOND, Mrs. Levinson expects a large vote of of confidence, not for herself but for Sunset as is, because so many others also see Sunset's good points far outshining its shortcomings.

THIRD, she expects the vote of all who are eager to join with her in fostering in this community a growing spirit of loyalty and tolerance for our fine school. She knows, just as any mother knows, that as a child can not properly develop without sympathy and understanding, just so a school can never be at its best without similar intelligible treatment.

So vote for Mrs. Levinson. She has a world of commonsense. She has thrift. She has kindly sympathy. She has educational understanding. She has children in the school.

And, above all, she has the will to cooperate with the town, with the Board and with the whole school for a happy, thrifty, useful term.
